Child and Adolescent Psychological Assessments - What to look for

Choosing a Psychologist

- Has good rapport with you and your child
- Is part of a professional team of trained psychologists
- Has access to an extensive test library

What Happens First:

- A comprehensive initial assessment process
- An individually tailored experience
- Alternate explanations are considered for presenting problems
- Informed decisions are made before assessment is conducted

The Next Step:

- Assessment examines all potential factors
- Engages with all relevant parties with your permission
- Appropriate tests are undertaken

Parent-Friendly Feedback:

- Comprehensive reporting
- Personalised recommendations are made
- Reader-friendly summaries are provided
- Feedback sessions to discuss results and recommendations

Ongoing Care for Your Child:

- Discussion of results with relevant parties with your permission
- Ongoing support through short and long term follow ups
- Continuing psychological therapy if required
